AWFUL CALAMITY.

A Young Man and his Wife Drowned in Scotts Creek.

One of the saddest duties we have been called upon to discharge for some time is to record the drowning of J. F. Benson and his wife.

When everything was in readiness the doors were opened and again the great crowd surged through the rooms, many persons passing through two or three times.

At three o'clock Mrs. Nixon, the mother of J. F. Benson, arrived attended by some of her friends. She was in a state of great excitement, and was weeping bitterly.

At four o'clock the remains of young Benson and his wife were on the way to the home of the bereaved mother, and the crowd of people followed them to the door.

THE FUNERAL. The funeral services of the Benson family were held at 10 o'clock, at the residence of the bereaved mother.

terrible. It seemed that there was not a man, woman or child in town that was not at the undertaker's, the crowd found that the bodies were lying in the room and the crowd passed through. For an hour the doors were closed and the crowd of people passed through the rooms, many persons passing through two or three times.

Railroad Disaster.

On the first page of this issue of the SENTINEL will be found a graphic report of one of the worst accidents known in the history of railroads in this country.

The number of the dead and wounded fall very little below what is there given. The suspicion that the train was wrecked by robbers does not seem to be substantiated by the investigation following the accident.

It is accepted as a fact now that the bridge caught from prairie fire that seemed to have been raging in that vicinity. It also appears that the company had taken precautions to guard against fire, but it is the testimony of the engineers appointed to make an investigation that the precautions taken were not as thorough as they should have been.

This is a sickening chapter, and while it is impossible to recall what has been done, the public have a right to demand that such care be taken that the world shall not be horrified by a recurrence of such lamentable disasters.

Where to Buy Monuments. It is a notable fact that some of the finest monuments that stand in our cemetery and the cemeteries throughout the country were placed there by Elsie & McLain, the well known dealers in and manufacturers of monuments, tombstones, etc., in this city.

Their workmanship is of the highest order, and the years they have been in business and the success that has crowned their efforts, make them formidable competitors. They stand up on a solid foundation to-day. It took years of hard work to build it, but now that it has been consummated, they feel that they can safely offer inducements to those wanting goods in their line, that cannot be met by any other house in the Hocking Valley. We can vouch for their honesty, and would most earnestly recommend them to all who are about to erect a monument over the grave of a friend. Don't fill an order until you have visited Elsie & McLain.

Fall Stock of Goods. The Misses McBride take pleasure in informing their many customers and the public generally that they have received their fall stock of milliner's goods and are prepared to offer some excellent bargains. Their stock consists of the latest styles in hats, bonnets, and all novelties belonging to the trade. They kindly invite the people to call and are quite sure they can suit not only in quality and style of goods, but in price as well.

New Fall Goods. Kate and Mary Kessler, the well known milliners, have just received their fall stock of goods, which consist of the latest styles of hats, bonnets, etc. They respectfully invite their many customers and the public generally, to call and inspect what they have and get prices. These ladies have long been prime favorites with our people. They are reasonable in their charges and the customer's wants is their first thought.

While in Logan do not fail to call at the drug, jewelry and book store of Reber & Co's, where you will always find a complete line of pure drugs and medicine, perfumes and toilet articles, watches, clocks, jewelry, wall paper, window shades, school books and school supplies, stationery, pictures, and all other articles as reasonably kept in a well regulated establishment of the kind.

New Millinery Store. Miss Mattie Mathews will next week open up a millinery store in the rooms formerly occupied by Miss D. Mathews, opposite the Opera House. She will have a complete stock of goods, further notice of which will be given next week.

Half Fare Rates to Ohio State Fair. During State Fair week the C. & W. V. & T. Ry. will sell excursion tickets from all stations on its line to Columbus and return at the rate of one fare for round trip. Tickets will be good going and returning on Sept. 20th to Sept. 24th, inclusive and good returning on any regular passenger trains up to and including Sept. 3rd.

Girl Wanted. A girl is wanted; one that is a good house keeper and cook. Will pay $2 per week. Address or call on Mrs. Geo. Mumford, this city.

Cow for Sale. I have a young cow that was fresh in June, which I will sell reasonably. Persons desiring to buy can see the cow by calling on O. A. Keth.

For Rent. Seven good rooms, two story frame dwelling house on M Liberty street, near Hunter St. For terms call on L. D. VICKERS.

Notice of Settlement. Having sold out my Grocery Store, I desire an immediate settlement of accounts. All persons indebted to me, or to whom I am indebted, are requested to call and make settlement at or before making contact with me. GEO. HARTMAN.

Sell's Bros. Show. In our notice of Sell's Show last week we inadvertently made the date September 10th, which should be Thursday, September 15th, at about the time Sell's Show will be here.

Dr. France,

OF COLUMBUS, O.,

And His Extensive Practice Both at Home and Abroad.

CONDENSED FACTS.

Some Interesting Reading.

OHIO STATE JOURNAL.

To write the biography of this distinguished physician in a few lines would be an impossibility. A leader in his profession, and in every sense of the word, great; with a practice far exceeding that of any of the United States, and yet he is a young man just in the prime of life, not more than 40 years of age.

For some years Dr. France has started the Eastern World, from time to time, by performing what seemed miraculous or supernatural cures. One writer in describing Dr. France's triumph in the sick room says: "Sickness is a toy in his hands; in a most phenomenal way he sheds light on the darkness of life, into the dying form, and robs the sick room of his sufferer
